Testimony Angela Khristin Brown

Every person who reads my poems should analyze each line of the poem and identify with the poem with their own life. These poems are a reflection of life, love and state of being. When you read a poem, the cliches I write, the similes I write, the metaphores I write have meaning for the reader to reflect on their own lives. My poems are abstract poems that express feelings and emotions throughout the lines of poetry. When you read my poems analyze each word like you would in a poetry class. I grew up poor from the gheto. I write from personal experience in how I relate to issues in the media that relate to my life. I report on modern day issues relative to life experience conducted through research. Every word is expressed in my own words and in my own feelings toward the subject.
